family may then be put upon a self-supporting basis. Another instance was that of a widow with four children. The oldest, now grown, has been for some years the support of his mother and younger sisters, and has worked his way into a trade that offers steady employment and good wages. He has been taken with some form

had been trained.

Still a third reported yesterday was that of a young married man, a journeyman painter, with three small children. The father has developed tuberculosis and has not been able to work for some time. The visitors say the house is clean and well kept. The mother takes in some washing to help support her husband and children. The family need everything—rent, greecries and fuel, and especially the nourishing food, eggs and so forth, directed by the dector for the sick man.

Serious Problem

Serious Problem.

Cases of this sort present a more scrious side than the mere giving of a night's lodging, with a job in the morning, or the issuing of a package of groceries and a bag of coal during a hard spell.

The keeping the families together in a home, with the ever-recurring rent, and the care of the sick member, will occasion considerable expense, of a kind which the charity organizations of the city are not in a position to bear. It has been suggested that possibly there may be persons in the city who will undertake to support a family of this bort, as a personal charity.

There are cases that need a personal sympathetic human touch that the organizations cannot supply. The officials of the organized charities, however, it and ready to supervise the work and tee that the charitably inclined are not amposed upon by an unworthy person. The spread of tuberculosis among the working classes presents one of the most performed to the property of the city at this time.

Superintendent Buchanan believes that all charity should be constructive and preventive. The putting of families on their feet and on a self-supporting and self-respecting basis should be the primary aim of the constructive work. The prevention of the increase of the pauper class is the second point to be met. In these cases of sickness referred to, to allow the family to be disintegrated and the home to be broken up, is merely the salaried officers of the Grand

The selection of Mr. James B. It was stated yesterday upon very reliable authority that Governor Swanson had decided to appoint Mr. Wood to succeed Mr. T. H. Ellett, whose term as a director will soon expire.

Mr. Wood is chairman of the Finance Committee of the Council, and is employed in the general offices of the Chesippeake and Ohio Railway, where he holds a responsible position and is highly valued. The appointment will be very gratifying to the many triends of Mr. Wood.

The city issued a total of $508,500 of bonds, of which the greater portion was of redemption bonds. About $175,000 was for other purposes, it appears that after the bonds had been signed it was discovered from the reverse side that the word "Refunding" appeared. While this would not have rendered the bonds invalid perhaps, the officials foit that they had a right to receive what they had paid for—that is, bonds properly engraved. Though the work of the two organizations is distinct, they do not conflict in any manner. Both are endeavoring to reach the same worthy end. The Prison Gate Work of the Salvation Army has been conducted for many years in other cities with notable success. It is just being instituted here by Captain Fowler, the able and onergetic head of the organization in this city, and has even in a brief while accomplished much good.
